

And so to work. We're going to lead off this week with a few remarks on the $170,000,000 "state" water plan. You'll remember that we urged you, a few weeks ago, to carefully scan all propaganda dealing with this plan, for and against. Well, we had previously read considerable on the subject, and since that column appeared several other pieces of literature have come to our desk; we scrutinized them closely.

The plan, which will be voted upon by the people of the state on Dec. 19, at a cost of approximately half a million dollars, is too large to take up all at once, so for a starter we'll mention the first few sections of the proposed law, and devote further space to it in subsequent issues.

In the first place, the bill was railroaded through the legislature on the last day of the session, with very little publicity attached thereto. Says an anti-pamphlet, "... and was apparently intended to give certain state officials a chance to start work on this project without the consent of the people whose money will be used." To this writer, tactics such as these appear to be slightly underhanded and, frankly, seem to reflect the color of the entire proceeding.

Section 1, for instance, declares that the Central Valley project is in the public interest. We fail to see where the plan, if carried out, will greatly benefit people generally throughout the state. True, it will benefit some number of contractors, many laborers, and without doubt those who would be empowered to let the contracts and purchase supplies. Never was so vast a sum spent on public works that the politicians didn't get their dirty fingers into the pot. All right, but what's it going to do for you and me, who are even now fighting to put over a paltry and purely local irrigation project for land already under cultivation in this valley? Proponents of the plan say that this tremendous storage of water will mean no new land under cultivation. But we find it hard to believe that; there are too many up and coming real estate men in this state to let such an opportunity slip past without capitalizing upon it. And we most emphatically do not need more land under cultivation. No benefit there, is there?

Section 2 (definitions), poorly conceals the potential danger to taxpayers, and clearly outlines the door through which politics may enter the stage: "Authority" means the water project authority of the state of California; "Department" means department of public works of the state of California; "State Agency" means any county, city and county, city, municipality, or any department or agency thereof, irrigation district, reclamation district or other public or municipal district. The foregoing takes in a lot of territory and could easily be the means of bankrupting not only the state, but every tax-levying district within the state, as well. For if the project passes, bonds are issued, and the federal government fails to "come through" with the much-mooted $170,000,000, the "Authority" may still proceed at its own discretion, with a likely tremendous deficit hurled onto the backs of the already overburdened people, even down to the lowliest school district. That all sounds very much involved, but it's not, at all. And it is entirely within the realm of possibility—nay, probability.

Jumping over to Section 5 we find that the aforesaid "Authority"

Home Economies Topic At Country Woman's Club Meet

Preceding the meeting of the Country Woman's club Monday recognition of the passing beyond of one of its charter members, Mrs. Lillie F. Shaw, was given by a moment of silence. This was followed by the reading of lines from James Whitcomb Riley's "Away" and verses from "Why Should We Weep for Those Who Die?"—a poem attributed to Tennyson.

The bereavement of Mrs. Mary Lanphear, until recently a member of the club, was remembered at the same time.

The program topic for the afternoon was "Practical Home Economies," with Mrs. M. E. Purmort chairman, and Mrs. Worthin Grattan assisting. Other members of the committee were unable to be present.

Mrs. Purmort read briefly from a book that has aroused great interest, "Your Money's Worth," by Stewart Chase and F. J. Schlink, in which the vast differences in cost and selling prices of many nationally advertised products is shown.

Miss Rowena Farman, teacher of domestic science and manager of the cafeteria of the Campbell Union grammar school, was introduced and gave a most interesting and enlightening talk on the functions of a school cafeteria as exemplified by the one under her management.

Here three kinds of service are carried on. A. Providing inexpensive but scientifically balanced and nourishing menus for the average child. B. Furnishing meals for the needy children. C. Arranging special diets for children under a doctor's or nurse's care.

The details of this work as explained by Miss Farman aroused great interest and many of her hearers promised themselves a visit to her domain.

An open forum brought forth many helpful suggestions of economies in labor or material.

Delightful saxophone and trumpet solos were rendered by Vincent Sartangelo and Wilbur Morton, with Miss Jeannette Wellington as accompanist. These students are members of the high school orchestra.

During the business meeting the club voted to give to the community chest a sum equivalent to the difference between last year's taxes and this year's, as the solicitors seem to be meeting with serious difficulty in raising the chest budget for the Campbell territory.

Eastern Visitor

Mrs. George Forrest of Moorhead, Minn., arrived in Campbell Tuesday morning for an indefinite visit with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Knappen, and her grandson, James Forrest.

Court of Honor

Sunday evening at the Congregational church there will be held a Boy Scout court of honor. A number of awards will be made, and the grammar school band will perform under the direction of A. A. Thielke. The Rev. J. H. Bennett will deliver the message.

Support Community Chest, Local Folks Urged By Council

Community chest workers are experiencing difficulties in raising the $1,950 which is Campbell's quota in this great annual drive. It is not that people are unwilling to give, according to George S. Robson, manager of the campaign, but may be attributed to a general shortage of money.

Those who have not been so hard hit, however, are coming to the rescue with contributions which are calculated to even up the fund by the closing date of the drive, Mr. Robson said.

Workers are redoubling their efforts, and are prepared to accept any amount, no matter how small. It was pointed out by the council that even as little as a single dollar helps out tremendously in the long run, and residents of this community are urged to give that amount rather than pass up the opportunity altogether.

Baseball Club Takes Los Gatos In Fast Game Sun.

By Hal DeFraga

Last Sunday the Campbell ball club journeyed to Los Gatos and played a good, close, exciting game of baseball. The game ended with the score in Campbell's favor, 8-7.

Hal Woods, who played centerfield in the place of Jung, who has been out of town, proved to be a real find. He hit a single, a double and a sacrifice in five times up. In addition, he covered the outfield in perfect style, and with the tying run on third base he threw the man out at the plate after making a good catch in centerfield to end the ball game.

The catching of Paul Lathrop was also very good to look at. In addition to the previously mentioned double play, Lathrop threw a man out stealing second after the batter had struck out on the pitch. The Los Gatos boys thought that the decision at the plate should have been in their favor, so their manager showed his "good sportsmanship" by keeping Campbell's half of the gate.

"School Boy" Quain was a little off form, and he was hit plenty hard. Los Gatos garnered 14 hits off his delivery, including doubles by Jerry, Albini, Garcia, and Vlamis, and a triple by Albini. He somewhat made up for this by striking out ten batters, which is good going.

Matheson yielded nine hits including doubles by Lathrop, Woods and Atkinson, and Breck Reed's home run over the centerfield fence. He was hit much harder than this as Shortstop Miller, who is their manager, stopped several hard-hit balls that might have gone for base hits in another game.

Grey and Miller of Los Gatos were the hitting stars of the day. Each man collected three hits in five times up. Albini and Garcia of Los Gatos, and Woods and Atkinson each garnered two safe ones. Next Sunday Campbell returns to their home diamond to play a

Will Enforce Traffic Laws In Campbell Says Capt. McGrury

Capt. Warren McGrury of the California state highway patrol, Santa Clara county division, visited in Campbell yesterday. He called at the Press office, where he revealed his intention of putting a stop to reckless driving and noisy cars in this vicinity. "We must do our best to curb wild driving at all times," said Captain McGrury. "It is particularly important that speeders be held down firmly during these months when school is in session."

Complimenting the Press on its recent editorial dealing with the speeder menace, Captain McGrury added that he will be pleased to receive any complaints of traffic violations at his office in San Jose, or to call such violations to the attention of any highway patrolman who visits this community.

Earlier in the week a member of the squad visited Campbell during the noon hour and apprehended a half dozen or so offenders, all high school youths, whose names are withheld, but who are expected to be dealt with firmly.

WALTER STANFORD DIES IN OAKLAND FRIDAY, NOV. 3RD

Walter Stanford, who passed away in Oakland on Friday, Nov. 3, was interred at Los Gatos cemetery Monday after services at the parlors of Curry & Grippenstraw in San Jose, which were conducted by the Reverend Hughes and the Reverend McHatwell, both of the Fruitvale Christian church. Clarence Robinson, Congregational organist, played.

Surviving Mr. Stanford, who was to some extent known hereabouts, are his widow, the former Miss Gertrude Maxon of Campbell, sister of Mrs. Mary Lanphear and Miss Sadie Maxon, and two sons, Jack and Richard Stanford.

Mr. Stanford was a native of Tennessee. He was a mining engineer by profession, and passed away in his 58th year.

Back to Honolulu

Mrs. D. T. Fullaway sailed for her home in Honolulu Friday, Oct. 28, on the steamship Lurline, after spending the summer with her mother, Mrs. Ella B. Lewis, and sister, Miss Vina Lewis. Many week vacations were taken, as well as occasional day trips, which added much to the pleasure of her visit.

The Campbell lineup, with a few recent changes, will appear as follows: Quain, p; White, p; Lathrop, c; Tucker, 1b; Atkinson, 2b; DeFraga, 3b; Thurber, ss; Woods, lf; Jung, cf; Clark, rf.

Attention is called to the ball club dance which will follow Friday night's basketball games here. The admission price is nominal, and students from the local high school, and their visitors, will be admitted for 15 cents if they pre-

Mrs. Lillie F. Shaw Laid At Rest In Oak Hill Tuesday

Local stores were closed between the hours of 2 and 3:30 yesterday afternoon out of respect for the memory of Mrs. Lillie F. Shaw, whose funeral was held here at that time from the Congregational church. Mrs. Shaw, a pioneer and a resident of this community for 40 years, passed away Sunday morning at her home on Johnson avenue at the age of 76 years. She had been ill for about a week.

Prominent in all community and civic affairs, Mrs. Shaw, a native of Pennsylvania, was a charter member and past president of the Country Woman's club. She was a leading spirit in the early efforts to provide a library for Campbell, and her interest in that institution had never lagged. She had been identified with the Congregational church for many years, and had been its active secretary for the past quarter of a century. Mrs. Shaw had a host of friends in the community, a great many of whom attended the services here yesterday.

The last rites were conducted by the Rev. J. H. Bennett. A quartet including Mrs. Worthin Grattan, Mrs. George S. Robson, Dr. W. I. Merrill and Harry C. Smith sang, with Mrs. W. H. Crothers accompanying. Pall bearers were Roy Archibald, H. V. Archibald, Carl Johnson, Marshall Ross, J. L. Maxon and Frank Cutting. Interment was made at Oak Hill.

Mrs. Shaw was the widow of R. D. Shaw, prominent rancher, who passed away 38 years ago. She was also the sister of the late Melissa Allen, May F. Beardsley, C. A. and H. P. Fleming. A brother, George D. Fleming of San Jose, survives, together with several nieces and nephews.

Sanfilippo To Be Arraigned In Judge Syer's Court

Servio Sanfilippo, Campbell avenue rancher, Monday, in Justice Chester Moore's court in San Jose, was held to answer the charge of murdering Manuel T. McCorkle, local steam shovel operator, on Hamilton avenue here on the night of July 28.

The decision was made in the presence of Sanfilippo, D. T. Jenkins, his attorney, and Deputy District Attorney Frank Waterhouse. The preliminary hearing was held Friday.

The hearing was held at the request of the county grand jury following an investigation by Attorney Earl Girven and Officer Harry Evans, after Sanfilippo had previously failed to be indicted by the grand jury shortly after the killing.

The defendant will probably appear before Superior Judge R. R. Syer for arraignment Friday morning.

The FARMERS CORNER

by RALPH H. TAYLOR

Executive Secretary
Agricultural Council of California

California's milk production, today, is virtually the same as it was three years ago—in volume!

But the farm value of this production dropped from $82,000,000 in 1930 to $65,000,000 in 1931—and to $52,000,000 for 1932.

Briefly told, that is the dairy farmer's problem in California, as it presents itself today. And it is one of the most serious problems confronting agriculture, especially in view of the fact that thousands of farmers depend largely on their butterfat checks for cash income.

Many solutions have been offered, but in most instances they have been found wanting. For example, at the recent western regional dairy conference in Oakland, there was suggested a method of controlled-feeding of cows to reduce their production. Still another suggestion was an arbitrary reduction of animals on every farm through slaughter.

The most practicable and feasible solution, which will shortly be presented to the federal government for consideration, comes from Dr. C. U. Duckworth, assistant director of the state department of agriculture and chief of the division of animal husbandry.

Dr. Duckworth's proposal calls for the reduction of dairy animals through tuberculin testing and destruction of reactors—a two-fold plan of cutting production, and thereby increasing net return, and at the same time eradicating bovine tuberculosis.

Here are the highlights of the Duckworth plan:

1. Request that the secretary of agriculture, under the broad powers vested in him by the agricultural adjustment act, appropriate the sum of $5,000,000 for the elimination of tuberculous animals in California.

2. A quick test of all dairy cattle in the state, made possible by working with the veterinary profession throughout the state, designed to take tuberculous animals out of production in a period roughly estimated at 60 days.

3. Producers losing cattle as a result of the tuberculosis eradication plan would be indemnified by the federal government, with no attempt to salvage the animals for meat purposes, and at no cost to the state.

4. Levying by the federal government of a 2-cent per pound tax on butterfat to reimburse the government for its $5,000,000 contribution to cover indemnification.

Such a tax, it is estimated, would raise approximately $3,000,000 per year—repaying the government for its advance in less than two years.

Such a plan—by cutting production—would increase the price of butter fat to the producer about 10 cents per pound, Dr. Duckworth estimates, thereby enabling the dairy farmer to get out of the red and make a fair profit.

At the same time, without increasing state taxes, or without imposing any unfair burden on the consumer, the program would be of great importance from a public health standpoint, as there is a recognized health menace involved in bovine tuberculosis.

Illustrating the benefit to the dairy farmer of such a program, Dr. Duckworth declares that a producer with 100 cows, even though they were all condemned as tuberculous, would be able to purchase, with his indemnification check, 60 head of clean animals which would produce a greater net profit than his original herd.

In summary, Dr. Duckworth asserts that his program offers a three-fold benefit: first, reduction of surplus will bolster prices; second, removal of the dairy cow from the beef market, thereby protecting the meat industry; third, greater protection to human health.

The Duckworth plan is by far the best yet suggested and deserves most serious consideration, on the part of both the industry and the federal government.

The Pundita circle met this afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. O. La Montagne on Union avenue. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Stanley Smith and Mrs. E. K. Clendening.

A business session was presided over by President Mrs. Cramer, and the topic, a book review, was discussed by Mrs. Clendening, who gave an interesting and comprehensive review of "The Good Earth," by Pearl S. Buck.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting, and Mrs. D. H. Cramer, whose birthday it was, was presented with a beautifully decorated cake and a bouquet of flowers. Mrs. M. E. Purmort read an original poem which she had written for the occasion.

FUTURE FARMERS ELECT OFFICERS FOR NEW SEASON

By Ali Bianco

The first meeting of the Campbell high school chapter of the Future Farmers of America, held last Friday, resulted in the election of the following officers for the ensuing year: Nick Boyto, president; Jack Belick, vice president; Norman Husted, secretary; Tom Ogino, treasurer; Ali Bianco, reporter.

After the installation of officers the Los Angeles livestock fair was discussed by the various members. About ten Future Farmers of the local chapter have signified their intention of going to Los Angeles for this fair, which will be held on Dec. 1 and 2. They will be accompanied by their instructors, Mr. York and Mr. Hughes.

CHAMBER MEET LACKS QUORUM, NO BUSINESS DONE

At a meeting of the Campbell chamber of commerce last night only five members and two non-members were present. Lacking sufficient attendance, no business was transacted.

President Herbert Shadle had hoped to be able to endorse the water conservation plan officially, and pass on some bills payable. As it was, however, members were able to discuss the matter only informally.

The crime situation was hashed over, and the meeting broke up at an early hour. Between now and the next scheduled meeting an effort will be made to find out just how the chamber of commerce is regarded by local people, with the hope that interest can be revived to the point of making the organization into a going concern.

is composed of but five members, including the attorney general, state controller, state treasurer, director of finance, and director of public works. Too few, too few—for the directorate of any huge public project. In an attempt, some years ago, to put the state in the power business, one of its chief causes of defeat was the fact that the bill proposed to create a power commission of but 5 men; therein the public saw an opportunity for altogether too much graft. The plan was refused. This deal smacks of a certain similarity. Here, too, enters Old Man politics on the weak but willing shoulders of our illustrious governor, James Rolph. For the chairman and the chief executive of the "Authority" are appointees of the governor. Easy enough to line up at least one of the remaining three.

Here's a "darby"—Section 7 (read this one carefully): The "Authority" is directed to construct said Central Valley project (not statewide), when in the judgment of said authority appropriations, contributions and revenues from all sources of every kind and character which are available or which will be made available upon, during, after or before construction of said Central Valley project—and there you are: within a few days after the project is okayed by the people—if it is—and as soon as the bonds are prepared (California state bonds, too, remember)—just what is to prevent the "Authority" from appropriating the gasoline road tax fund for the purpose of building dams—or for that matter, a monument to the astuteness of James Rolph, at a dam site? Not a thing! Yes, even to the monument, because a perusal of the law reveals the fact that the "Authority" would have the power to keep on building anything anywhere till hell freezes over, as long as they called it a unit of the project. Even the funds of our small, local lighting district would not be safe from the avaricious "Authority" if they were needed to further the project.

And that's enough to think about for a week. In the next appearance of this column we'll give you more reasons why we, after an honest study of the scheme, have finally allowed our decision to fall off of the fence and onto the front lawn of the "antis."
